Get More From Your Pembroke Library Card

from Pembroke Public Library

Log in to your OverDrive account and look for these "Pembroke only" eBook and audiobook titles available in the catalog!

This month our cheery Reference Librarian Stephanie shares a sampling of her favorite titles, series, and authors, each of which explores the lives of women in a different historical period. Try one or all!

Susan Fletcher's Corrag (or, The Highland Witch) relates the saga of its eponymous heroine, a young healer accused of witchcraft during the time of Scotland's Glencoe massacre. The descriptions of the Scottish Highlands in the late 17th century are beautifully crafted, and the moving story of this strong and brave young woman is lyrically told.

The Maisie Dobbs series by Jacqueline Winspear features another strong heroine, a former battlefield nurse turned psychologist and investigator in post-WWI England. These tales are of the cozy mystery genre. Each of the twelve books presents a different case while advancing the ongoing story of Maisie's past and personal life. Some of the more popular titles in the series are Pardonable Lies and An Incomplete Revenge. Stephanie recommends the audio versions, read by Orlagh Cassidy.

Elizabeth Gaskell was a British author known for her exploration of social mores and burgeoning industrialism in Victorian England. Her books North and South (which centers on the conflict between factory workers and masters) and Cranford (satirical sketches of life in a country village) have been made into popular BBC miniseries. Stephanie's favorite of Ms. Gaskell's novels is Wives and Daughters, her last and most extensive work which was nearly complete at the time of her passing.

Library Trustees Changes

Sincere thanks to Elaine Spalding, retired Trustee

After almost 21 years of service to the library and town, Elaine Spalding stepped down as Library Trustee in December 2016. Elaine first volunteered for many years at the library, then became an elected Trustee in 1995. She also served on the committee that designed the beautiful library building from 1996 to 1998. During her time as Trustee, Elaine further supported the library by attending events, donating books to the Children's collection, and donating Swedish-themed items for the Friends of the Pembroke Library auctions. Her advice, dedication, and good humor always kept Trustees' meetings productive and fun. She was Board Secretary for most of her tenure, a job at which she excelled and in which she took great pride. Elaine says she has always loved serving the library and will continue to visit often as a patron.

Carol Watches, longtime member and past President of the Friends of the Pembroke Library, applied and was appointed to serve in the seat vacated by Ms. Spalding. The Trustees are happy to work with her and she has "pulled papers" to run on the town ballot for the completion of the term.
